Legare + Bailey + Hinske LLC is expanding its accounting and consulting team with the addition of James Cargile as a full-time Staff Accountant.

James is responsible for corporate and individual tax planning and preparation, business planning, audits, reviews and compilations. He gained prior experience with Dixon Hughes Goodman as a tax intern and a litigation support intern.

Cargile earned a Bachelor of Science in Accounting and Business Administration from the College of Charleston and a Master of Accountancy from Auburn University. In college he was active in Beta Alpha Psi as the Community Service Outreach Officer, and was a Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) site coordinator at the College of Charleston. He is currently a member of the Charleston Young Professionals Association and the South Carolina Association of Certified Public Accountants (SCACPA).

"I love working at L+B+H because of the personal approach they take to accounting. They explain things to clients in a way that is easy to understand, and they are very patient. I think that's what people want. They listen to what individuals and businesses want, and they customize their approach to match their clients' needs. They're also a lot of fun," shared Cargile.
